I'm not a politician or a lawyer so I do not understand the motivation behind anyone wanting to restrict my access to local traffic and weather just because, as a consumer in a free country, I have decided to subscribe to XM Satellite Radio. That doesn't mean that I won't turn to WMZQ 98.7 FM for the Ben and Brian show in the morning or switch back and forth between XM, FM and AM radio for all possible music and news, as well as traffic and weather reports. When I want traffic and/or weather, I usually search the dial for the reports from all stations. With local traffic and weather offered by XM, it's just another report to check out. Who's the loser? Why would anyone waste their time and money to fight against more choices for the consumer? I want it ALL and I don't want a politician or a lawyer saying that they don't think I should have that choice.
